MINISTER'S WELCOME

The McGowan Government is a proud sponsor of the CinefestOZ Film Festival through its Regional Events Program.

The program was devised as a way for the Government to support medium to large events in regional Western Australia to boost tourism, increase community vibrancy and participation, and develop regional areas.

The Regional Events Program also plays an important role in positioning Western Australia as an exciting destination to visit and a great place to live by showcasing and promoting a region's unique and diverse attractions.

Tourism is a key part of the Government's plan to diversify the economy, create jobs and develop business opportunities particularly to help regional economies and communities in Western Australia.

Events play an important role in this plan, with the Government sponsoring a range of sporting, cultural, arts and culinary events across the State, through Tourism Western Australia, to attract visitors, encourage them to stay longer, disperse further and do more while they are here.

We hope everyone enjoys this event and takes the time to explore the South West region.

CHAIRS MESSAGE

Kaya. We are delighted you are joining the CinefestOZ Film Festival for our 15th year of celebration. Our team have again put together a program rich in compelling Australian stories. We are also providing opportunities for you to go behind the scenes, explore the journey of film creation, kick up your heels with post screening events and enjoy the sumptuous food and finely crafted beverages of the Margaret River Region. A unique feast for all the senses!

Over the last two years we have all been forced to absorb much of our regular film diet on small screens; iPhones, iPads and TVs. But it is the community aspect of the big screen experience that exhilarates and captivates us most and there has never been a better time to watch Australian stories in a cinema together.

This year four films will be competing for the prestigious CinefestOZ Film Prize of $100,000, many more will be in competition in the flourishing short film section of the festival. Our well-loved IndigifestOZ program is back as is the Cinesnaps schools' program, the free community screenings and the engaging film industry program.

This is our 15th year of festival and my first year as Chair of the organisation. Seeing firsthand how dedicated and passionate the team is about the festival has been an honour and I congratulate the Board, the amazing staff, interns and volunteers on your outstanding achievement. A warm thank you too to our many sponsors, donors and friends. Your support is essential to making this fabulous event happen.

SERIOUSLY RED

In this rowdy and rambunctious musical dramedy, Red (Krew Boylan) is at a crossroads in her life. A vivacious and hilarious red-haired woman grappling with high expectations and low self-esteem, she pours herself a cup of ambition and trades her 9 to 5 career in real estate for a life under the spotlight as a Dolly Parton impersonator. After misreading her work party's dress code, Red tumbles outta bed into a new world of tribute artists and impersonators in her wild and messy journey that includes romancing a Kenny Rogers impersonator. Red has to lose herself in order to find herself.

ABLAZE

The true story of the first Aboriginal filmmaker William 'Bill' Onus.

Ablaze tells of Bill Onus, a Yorta Yorta and Wiradjuri man from Victoria, a truly heroic cultural and political figure who revived his people's culture in the 1940s and ignited a civil rights movement that would, against enormous odds, change the course of history.

Told by his grandson Tiriki through rare archival footage, state-of-the-art animation, vividly created digital motion graphics and eye-witness accounts, Ablaze is the compelling tale – part detective story, part contemporary opera – of how Bill and supporters brilliantly orchestrated their campaign for equality through performance, entertainment, film and sheer audacity outsmarted mighty forces seeking to destroy Indigenous cultures, languages, and communities.

BOSCH & ROCKIT

Filmed at iconic Byron Bay, against the canvas of Australia's famous east coast surf beaches and rain forests, Bosch & Rockit is a raw and unapologetic exploration of unconscious parenting and the deeper themes of love, forgiveness and relationships.

Set in the late 1990s, before the era of smartphones and social media, Bosch & Rockit is a powerful story told through the eyes of a young teenage boy. As Rockit grapples to understand why his Mum's not coming home, he embarks on a magical holiday with his father, Bosch, only to discover they're actually running from the law.

Bosch & Rockit is a film that exposes the devastation that unconscious parenting and addiction can have on a family. It is a story that ultimately gives us hope that no matter what our circumstances are, we will find a way through. Told through the eyes of a young boy, Bosch & Rockit will take us on an incredible journey from boyhood to manhood.

They clean the homes of some of society's most vulnerable people – the neglected, the lonely, the addicted, and the mentally unwell. When illness forces her away from her beloved trauma cleaning business, Sandra Pankhurst faces up to her traumatic past and begins a search for her birth mother. Meanwhile, her workers approach this difficult work with camaraderie and humour, bringing hope to their clients despite carrying trauma of their own. Clean shows us that life is more fragile than we might think, but there is hope and reassurance in human connection.

FRANKLIN MIFF@CINEFESTOZ

Eighth-generation Tasmanian and environmentalist Oliver Cassidy embarks on a life-changing solo rafting trip down the beautiful yet remote Franklin River. His goal: to retrace his late father's 18-day expedition to attend the blockade that saved the World-Heritage listed national park from being destroyed by a huge hydroelectric dam project in the early 1980s. Featuring never-before-seen archival footage and interviews with key players such as Bob Brown and Uncle Jim Everett, the eight-year-long 'Franklin campaign' is revealed as the most significant environmental protest in Australia's history; an inspiring example of the power of non-violent direct action to bring about lasting change. Physically challenged beyond his limits, Oliver's journey is one of healing and deeper understanding as he searches for the right way to say 'goodbye' to his father.

GENERAL HERCULES

For millennia the remote arid deserts of Western Australia lay undisturbed. On the 14th of June 1893 European prospectors discovered 'The Golden Mile' on what was the traditional lands of the local Indigenous people. In little over a hundred years a natural landscape has transformed into the industrial hellscape of Kalgoorlie-Boulder. As the incumbent Mayor of Kalgoorlie-Boulder, John Bowler, starts his campaign for a second term, independent prospector John 'General Hercules' Katahanas, decides to run against him on a ticket of anti-corruption. What starts out as a quirky David v Goliath political battle, unravels into a portrait of a man, a town and a country, sent mad by the timeless cycles of exploitation, racism and greed.

GREENHOUSE BY JOOST MIFF@CINEFESTOZ

Imagine a house that grows its own food. That's the vision of environmental campaigner Joost Bakker, who was once dubbed the 'Poster Boy of Zero-Waste Living' by The New York Times. This inspiring feature documentary follows Bakker as he builds a self-sustaining home, an ecosystem that provides its occupants with water, energy, shelter and nourishment. Joined in his work by internationally acclaimed chefs Matt Stone and Jo Barrett, Bakker faces his fair share of challenges to finish the home. Bureaucratic delays, COVID shutdowns and blackouts all threaten the build. But ultimately, Greenhouse is an uplifting look at the teamwork and ingenuity behind a paradigm-shifting project that bursts with life. Filmed over the course of a year in beautiful central Melbourne, Greenhouse cleverly incorporates social media content to demonstrate the reach and influence of Bakker's project. The documentary was created by the multi-award-winning Australian production company GoodThing Productions.

OUR LAW (EPISODES 1-3)

For 12 months, documentary cameras follow emergency callouts in one of the largest and most challenging law enforcement areas in the world, as First Nations officers and cadets attempt to change the system from within. With unprecedented access to the 2021 class of First Nations Western Australian police cadets and their gruelling training, along with ride-along access to experienced Aboriginal officers out on the frontline, this first-of-its-kind observational documentary series observes First Nations police officers and cadets attempting to make lasting change out on the beat while giving strong voice to the Aboriginal communities being policed. Our Law cameras are privy to revealing candid squad car conversations, full of humour and blunt honesty, as well as to the forthright perspectives of First Nation leaders and communities that are being policed. Through our emotional connection to the participants over six episodes as they attempt to make lasting change, and with a strong focus on truth-telling around both the historic and contemporary policing of First Nations peoples, Our Law is a groundbreaking, timely, and critically important exploration of First Nations-police relations in Australia.

SPLICE HERE: A PROJECTED ODYSSEY

Splice Here: A Projected Odyssey is a love letter to film told through the eyes of documentarian and projectionist, Rob Murphy. Ten years ago as film projectors were being ripped out of cinemas and replaced with digital counterparts it was pretty clear that film was facing its death knell. Like many others Rob felt digital was a poor substitute so out of desperation he picked up a camera and began recording what he thought was the end of an era. The resulting adventure has now crossed three continents exploring the projectionist underground and meeting such Hollywood film legends as Quentin Tarantino and Douglas Trumbull. This is a film buffs doco, where we discover how the digital revolution has not just changed the way we see movies but is becoming a very real threat to how we will remember them.

UNDER COVER MIFF@CINEFESTOZ

Hundreds of thousands of homeless people in Australia are hidden and go unrecognised as homeless. The majority of them are women. In fact, women over 50 are the fastest growing demographic of homeless in the developed world. These women live in their cars, stay on a friend's couch or sofa bed, or live in short-term accommodation. They find themselves in this uncertain and terrifying position primarily due to the gender pay gap and the lifelong gendered expectation of unpaid labour; where women often find themselves left doing the caring roles in their homes, in their extended family and in their communities. Under Cover follows ten of these women, as well as three people working to keep older women like them from becoming homeless.

We Are Still Here is an anthology feature film that connects eight characters by their strength and personal stories of survival from Australia, New Zealand and the Pacific spanning over 1000 years. Starting in 1860s NZ, a young Māori woman defies her parents by provocatively performing a Haka (war dance), which in turn convinces her tribe to go to war to defend neighbouring tribes against the British colony; an Aboriginal tracker guides a free settler through treacherous and unforgiving Australian landscape ultimately leading him to his death, a young Aboriginal man in Alice Springs works for the attention of a shopkeeper all the while being harassed by a racist police officer but in a comedic turn of events, ultimately has the last say, and a young Māori child must venture into a frozen post-apocalyptic world alone in order to save her grandfather. The eight chapters are interwoven with a distinctive approach to story from a cohort of Indigenous filmmakers.

ANAÏS IN LOVE

Anaïs is thirty and broke. She has a lover, but she's not sure she loves him anymore. She meets Daniel, who immediately falls for her. But Daniel lives with Emilie – whom Anaïs also falls for. This is the story of a restless young woman. And the story of a profound desire.

This ménage à trois elegantly navigates fantasy, sensuality and melancholy in a film that grows in intensity with each passing minute. Reminiscent of an Eric Rohmer or Greta Gerwig film, comic situations abound in Charline Bourgeois-Tacquet's sparkling debut feature, with writing that draws sincere and captivating performances from Podalydès as a man out of his depth and Tedeschi as a woman on the edge of awakening.
